My dear Aghnides,

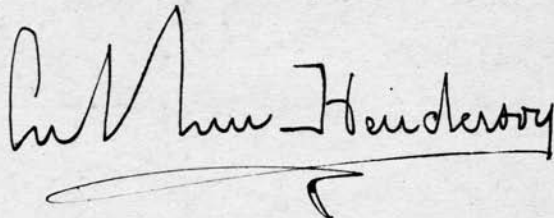

Very many thanks for your letter of congratulation on my success at Clay Cross. The majority is an excellent one and I am very satisfied with the result.

The campaign was a very strenuous one, but I am glad to say that I have come through with my health unimpaired. Mrs. Henderson and I are now staying at Lancing, near Brighton, in order that I may have a short rest before returning to my duties at Transport House and my responsibilities at Geneva. I will write you in detail next week but will now just say that I am hoping to leave London about the time of the meeting of the Council.

Meanwhile, perhaps you would be good enough to send me a complete copy of the Report that you thought ought to be circulated.

With kind regards,

Yours sincerely,
